52 responses

In an above graph , I have collected responses from 52 people. And 61.5 % people have plastic waste in their households. And after that 50 % have food waste in their households . Then paper waste have 46.2 % in households of every people. And lastly 1.9 % of waste includes bones , wet waste , uncooked vegetable waste are least wastage founded in households of people.

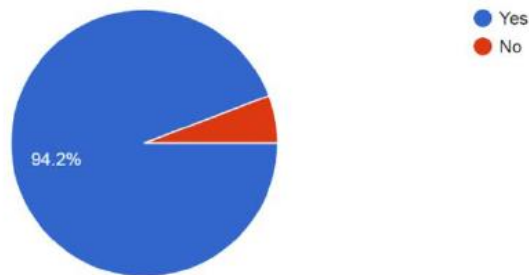

Does your society have regular waste collection ?
52 responses

As seen from above pie chart , I have collected 52 responses from people . The maximum percent of people ie. 92.3 % have regular waste collection in their housing societies. And with the least percent only 7.7 % people have no facility of daily waste collection in their housing societies .

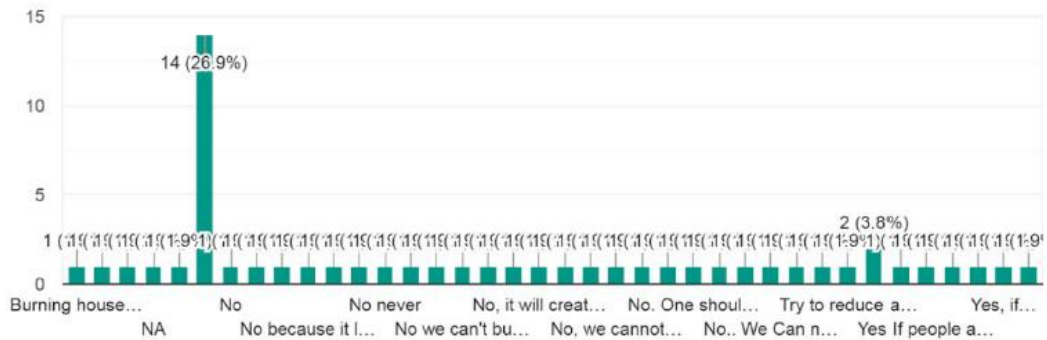

Kitchen Waste Management

Does your society segregate waste as Dry waste and Wet waste ?
52 responses

As seen in above pie chart , I have collected responses from 52 people. The above pie provides information of segregation of waste as dry and wet waste. In above seen 94.2 % (49 people saying yes) for segregation of the waste and have maximum percent. And 5.8 % (3 people saying no) with least percent says that their societies don't segregate waste as Dry waste and Wet waste.

Can you burn waste in open space? (Ans in 3 - 4 lines)
52 responses

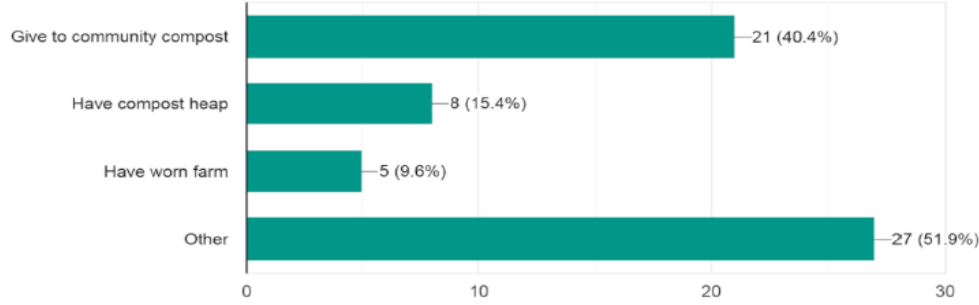

In an above graph provided we have information about burning of waste in open space. The maximum of people 26.9 % are saying no we should not burn waste in open space. And only 3.8 % people say yes we can burn waste in open waste with proper care.

Kitchen Waste Management

What you do to manage your food waste ?

52 responses

In the above given graph , I have collected information from 52 people. And a maximum 51.9 % are saying other options for managing their waste in their households. After that , 40.4 % of people give food waste to different community composts. Then 15.4 % have a compost heap (recycle all kitchen and garden waste into rich organic compost) . And at least with minimum 9.6 % have a worm farm (also called vermiculture) .

We'd love to hear from you. Do you have any food waste tips you'd like to share ?

52 responses

Yes many of the responses where :-

1. Cook only the required amount of food and do share the overcooked food with the poor as it helps reduce food wastage.
2. We can donate the food which is left over instead of throwing it out.
3. We should use the techniques to get the best out of the best for the food waste. So no air pollution , water pollution will be created.
4. We have a very small quantity of food which is left on a rare basis. We try to finish the food and also to make the food that is needed. Not extra. Even if some food chunks are left, we either keep it to birds, animals or give good leftovers to the poor.
5. Worm composition can be done at home in small buckets which we don't use at our home. It doesn't take lots of space and only needs a bucket.
6. Use leftover foods, fruit peels and egg shells for preparing manure for trees.
7. Always respect food. Share the leftover food with needy people. Freezing food is one of the best ways to preserve it, So that it can be used for the next day.

USE OF VEHICLES

ANALYSIS OF THE DATA-

From the survey which I had conducted via Google Forms, I came to know about the following data/facts-

- Number of respondents using a vehicle is almost 96.1%.
- Number of respondents following all traffic norms is almost around 72.9%.
21.6% of the respondents follow traffic norms rarely.
- After asking the question, "What would You like to prefer?" (Electric Vehicle or Petrol Vehicle), 58.8% of the respondents would like to prefer electric vehicle, and 41.2% of the respondents would like to prefer Electric Vehicle.
- After asking about traffic violation challans, 60.8% of my respondents don't even know that they have any traffic challans or not, 25.5% of them have active traffic challans.
- Majority of my respondents use a petrol vehicle which is 49%, 21.6% of them use electric vehicle and 29.1% of them use both electric and petrol vehicle.
- The number of respondents having a charging station for electric vehicles near their residence is 49%, 37.3% respondents don't have any charging stations near residence.
- Around 39% of my respondents commute 10-15 KMS daily, 31% of them commute 15-20 KMS daily and 17% of them commute less than 5 KMS daily.
- According to survey, 64.7% of respondents do not use a vehicle for travelling to short distances.
- For public transport, 41.2% of the respondents use public transport daily, and 51% respondents make use of public transport rarely.
- Number of respondents having a petrol pump within the distance of 1 KM from their house is almost 55%. Around 27% of respondents don't have a petrol pump within the distance of 1 KM from their house.
- According 37.3% of the respondents Two-Wheeler is the best option for city commutes, according to 15.7% of the respondents Four-Wheeler of the best option for city commutes.
- For future prediction, I asked that can electric vehicle replace petrol vehicles in future, 53% of the respondents said yes and 17.6% said no.

CONCLUSION-

From the survey I came to know about various aspects about use of vehicle. I came onto conclusion that petrol vehicles have great infrastructure than electric vehicles right now. But electric vehicles have capability to replace petrol vehicles in India.

Japan-earthquake and volcanic eruption

India- Floods

Japan-earthquake and volcanic eruption

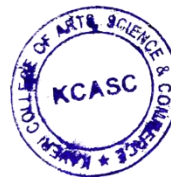

Japan is the country that is most affected by natural disasters mainly due to it being in the Ring of Fire. Two out of the five most expensive natural disasters in recent history have occurred in Japan, in 1995 and 2011, costing $181 billion. Japan has also been the site of some of the 10 worst natural disasters of the 21st century. Many types of natural disasters occur in Japan such as tsunamis, floods, typhoons, earthquakes, cyclones, and even volcanic eruptions. The country has gone through thousands of years of natural disasters,[1] affecting its economy, development, and social life. Some other major disasters in Japan were more recent, such as the January 1995 Great Hanshin earthquake and the March 2011 Tōhoku earthquake and tsunami, which triggered the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear disaster.

1. Causes of the Disaster

Japan is particularly vulnerable to natural disasters because of its climate and topography, and it has experienced countless earthquakes, typhoons, and other types of disasters.

A number of factors contribute to the high incidence of natural disasters in Japan. First, the country is subject to extreme climatic variations, such as seasonal rain fronts and typhoons, as well as heavy snowfall on the Sea of Japan side of the archipelago. Second, Japan's topography is rugged and there are many faults and steep inclines. Third, Japan is located in the Pacific earthquake belt and is frequently struck by earthquakes, while its complex coastline is vulnerable to tsunamis. And fourth, Japan is located in the circum-Pacific zone, in which almost all the volcanoes of the world are concentrated, and has 83 active volcanoes-one-tenth of the world total.

2. Precautionary measures taken to minimize the effect

In 1961 the Disaster Countermeasures Basic Act was enacted. Thereafter measures for prevention, emergency relief, and recovery were linked interactively under a system that ensured a planned and comprehensive approach to disaster countermeasures. The enactment of the Forest Conservation and Flood Control Urgent Measures Law in March 1960 was followed by the planned implementation of flood control measures and other projects designed to enhance Japan's ability to defend against disasters. In June 1960 a decision was reached to observe a "Disaster Prevention Day" each year on September 1 as a means of disseminating disaster prevention knowledge and raising public awareness.

3. How does Japan react to Disaster?

1. Trains

Seismometers are placed on every train track to monitor seismic activity (earthquakes). When signalled, the system automatically engages the breaks, coming to a near halt in the time before the quake hits. Safety measures like guard rails have been added to prevent complete derailment and most tracks are built to sustain a swaying movement. Even a bullet train hurtling along at full-speed can come to a halt and keep its occupants safe.

2. Buildings

It's a marvel of Japanese engineering that skyscrapers stay standing during an earthquake. Many have a counterweight system installed which swings with the movement of the building to stabilize it. Smaller houses are built on flexible foundations that can absorb movement in 6 directions and diminish the effects of the quake. Elevators automatically shut down and have to be checked before they operate again. Gas, electricity and water lines turn off automatically when triggered, preventing fires, floods, and explosions.

3. People

Children are trained by their schools to deal with earthquakes from kindergarten. They do drills, learn not to panic, and gain experience in

India – Floods

Floods are the most common natural disaster in India. The heaviest southwest of the Brahmaputra and other rivers to distend their banks, often flooding surrounding areas.

1. Causes of the Disaster

Climate change has played an important role in causing large-scale floods across central India, including the Mumbai floods of 2006 and 2017. During 1901-2015, there has been a three-fold rise in widespread extreme rainfall events, across central and northern India – Gujarat, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Telangana, Odisha, Jharkhand, Assam and parts of Western Ghats – Goa, north Karnataka and South Kerala. The rising number of extreme rain events are attributed to an increase in the fluctuations of the monsoon westerly winds, due to increased warming in the Arabian Sea. This results in occasional surges of moisture transport from the Arabian Sea to the subcontinent, resulting in heavy rains lasting for 2–3 days, and spread over a region large enough to cause floods.

2. Precautionary measures taken to minimize the effect

1. Construct barriers

If flood water is entering your area, then construct barriers to stop floodwater from entering your home. For example, to make a temporary barrier you can construct a wall of sandbags.

2. Try to stay out of floodwater

Floodwater is full of bacteria that can cause infections and increase the risk of water-borne diseases like typhoid fever, cholera, leptospirosis, and hepatitis A. Other than this, it can also cause skin rashes and diseases like leptospirosis, tetanus, gastrointestinal illness, etc. So, for your own safety, it's best to avoid direct contact with polluted waters.

3. Prevent injuries

PRINCIPAL
Kannada Sangha Pune's
Kaveri College of Arts, Science & Commerce

Floodwater may contain sharp objects that can cause injury and lead to infection. So, be careful of getting wounds and if you get any, seek medical attention to heal those wounds. If you have an open wound, avoid exposure to floodwater keep it clean by washing well with soap and clean water.

4. Education about drainage

Well, education plays a major role. People in many developing countries have little knowledge of the drainage system. Consequently, the drains get choked with litter and people suffer during rains.

Mostly during the rainy season, drains are cloaked by massive chunks of litter and debris, and water finds its way into the streets and into people's homes.

Therefore, education is very important, to inform and make people conscious about the dangers of floods. And ask, what causes floods? What can be done to minimise its impact?

3. How Disaster is Managed

A comprehensive flood management plan is needed to include Disaster preparedness. It may require strengthening of the following:

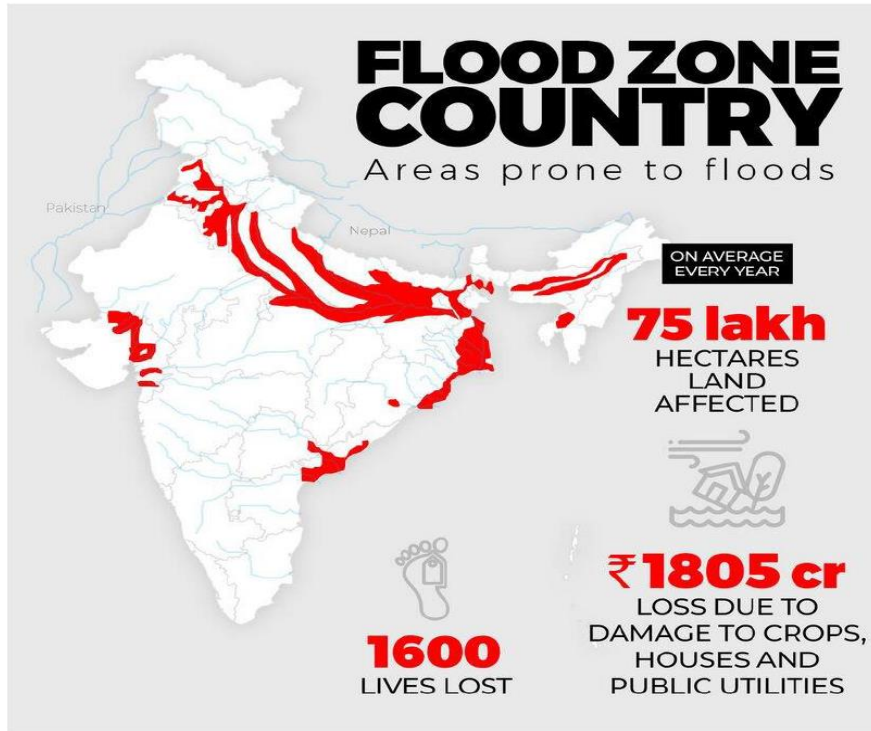

- Flood Hotspot Mapping at local and regional scale.
- Management and regulation of riparian zones to prevent spilling and erosion.
- River flood modelling to prepare for incidences like reservoir breach and emergency water release from dams.
- Advanced techniques such as mapping based on satellite imagery and Geographic Information Systems will help in development of flood early warning systems.

Conclusion

As floods cause major damage to life and property every year, it is time the central and the state governments prepare a long-term plan that goes beyond piecemeal measures like building embankments and dredging to control floods. Also, there is a need for an integrated basin management plan that brings all the river-basin sharing countries as well Indian states on board.

ABSTRACT:

In early 2018, Cape Town (population ~3.7 million) was at risk of being one of the first major metropolitan areas in the world to run out of water. This was due to a severe multi-year drought that led to the levels of supply dams falling to an unprecedented low. Here we analyze rainfall data from the city catchment areas, including rare centennial records from the surrounding region, to assess the severity of the 2015–2017 drought. We find that there has been a long-term decline in the number of winter rainfall days, but this trend has been generally masked by fluctuations in rainfall intensity. The recent drought is unprecedented in the centennial record and represents a combination of the long-term decline in rainfall days and a more recent decline in rainfall intensity. Cold fronts during the winter months are responsible for most of the rainfall reaching Cape Town and our analysis shows no robust regional trend in the number of fronts over the last 40 years. Rather, the observed multidecadal decline in rainfall days, which threatens to increase the occurrence of severe drought, appears to be linked to a decrease in the duration of rainfall events associated with cold fronts. This change in rainfall characteristics associated with fronts appears to be linked to Hadley Cell expansion seen across the Southern Hemisphere and an increasing trend in post-frontal high-pressure conditions that suppress orographically enhanced rainfall.

About 80 tropical cyclones form annually over warm tropical oceans. When they develop and attain an intensity with surface wind speed exceeding 118 km/h, they are called hurricanes in the western hemisphere, typhoons in the western North Pacific region and severe tropical cyclones, tropical cyclones or similar names in other regions. Such tropical cyclones are among the most devastating of all natural hazards. Their potential for wrecking havoc caused by their violent winds, torrential rainfall and associated storm surges, floods, tornadoes and mud slides is exacerbated by the length and width of the areas they affect, their severity, frequency of occurrence and the vulnerability of the impacted areas. Every year several tropical cyclones cause sudden-onset disasters of varying harshness, with loss of life, human suffering, destruction of property, severe disruption of normal activities and set-back to social and economic advances. However, a particularly important aspect of tropical cyclones, as distinct from most other natural hazards, is the availability of operational systems for monitoring, forecasting and warning of all tropical cyclones, everywhere in the world, as a basis for preparedness action and, hence, disaster mitigation. Timely official warnings for national territory are contained in releases issued by the national Meteorological Services for dissemination to all those who are threatened. The activities are coordinated at the global and regional levels by the WMO through its World Weather Watch and Tropical Cyclone Programmes.

INTRODUCTION

A Natural Disaster is a major adverse event resulting from natural processes of the Earth; examples include firestorms, duststorms, floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, volcanic eruptions, earthquakes, tsunamis, storms, and other geologic processes. A natural disaster can cause loss of life or damage property, and typically leaves some economic damage in its wake, the severity of which depends on the affected population's resilience and on the infrastructure available.

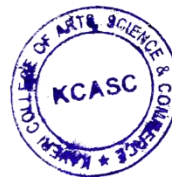

In modern times, the divide between natural, man-made and man-accelerated is quite difficult to draw with human choices like architecture, fire, resource management or even climate change potentially playing a role. An adverse event will not rise to the level of a disaster if it occurs in an area without vulnerable population. In a vulnerable area, however, such as Nepal during the 2015 earthquake, an adverse event can have disastrous consequences and leave lasting damage, which can take years to repair. The disastrous consequences also impact the mental health of affected communities, often leading to post-traumatic symptoms. These increased emotional experiences can be supported through collective processing, leading to resilience and increased community engagement.

As the definition suggests, disasters are highly disruptive events that cause suffering, deprivation, hardship, injury and even death, as a result of direct injury, disease, the interruption of commerce and business, and the partial or total destruction of critical infrastructure such as homes, hospitals, and other buildings, roads, bridges, power lines, etc. Disasters can be caused by naturally occurring events, such as earthquakes, hurricanes, flooding, or tornadoes, or they can be due to man-made events, either accidental (such as an accidental toxic spill or nuclear power plant event), or deliberately caused (such as various terrorist bombings and poisonings).

A natural disaster can cause loss of life or damage property and typically leaves some economic damage in its wake, the severity of which depends in its wake, the severity of which depends in its wake the severity of which depends on the affected population's resilience and on the infrastructure available.

In modern times, the divide between natural manmade and man accelerated is quite difficult to draw with human choices like architecture, fire, resource management or even climate change potentially playing a role. An adverse effect will not rise to the level of a disaster if it occurs in an area without vulnerable population. In a vulnerable area, however such as Nepal during the 2015 earthquake an adverse event can have disastrous consequences and leave lasting damage, which can take years to repair. A natural disaster is an event that is caused by the natural force of the earth where great damage and sometimes, loss of the life occurs. Natural disasters can take many forms ranging from earthquake and tsunamis, to floods and volcanic eruptions, to mudslides and wildforce.

Project Report On Natural Disaster

The Wikipedia defines Natural Disaster as “A disaster is a natural or man-made event that negatively affect life, property, livelihood or industry often resulting in permanent changes to human societies, ecosystems and environment.

As the definition suggests, disasters highly disruptive events that cause suffering, deprivation hardships, injury and even death ,as a result of direct injury, disease, the interruption of commerce and business and the partial or total destruction of critical infrastructure such as homes, hospital, and other buildings, roads, bridges, power lines, etc. Disaster can be caused by naturally occurring events, such as earthquakes, hurricanes, flooding, or tornadoes, or they can be due to man-made events, either accidental or deliberately caused.

The definition of natural disaster is any catastrophic event that is caused by nature or the natural processes of the earth. The severity of a disaster is measured in lives lost, economic loss, and the ability of the population to rebuild. Events that occur in unpopulated areas are not considered disasters. So a flood on an uninhabited island would not occur in unpopulated areas are not considered disasters, So a flood on an uninhabited island would not count as a disaster , but a flood in a populated area is called a natural disaster.

All natural disasters cause loss in a some way. Depending on the severity, lives can be lost in any number of disasters. Falling building or trees, freezing to death, being washed away, or heat stroke are just some of the deadly effects. Some disasters cause more loss of life than others, and population density affects the death count as well.

With a view to create awareness regarding environment protection, the college has started Environmental Awareness as a subject for Second Year Undergraduate Students, as per UGC guidelines. The students are expected to complete projects related to the area of environment protection.

For completion of the projects, the students have to work as volunteers with NGOs for activities related to environmental issues.

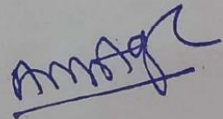

You are, being a prominent NGO in the field, requested to extend your co-operation for the above mentioned projects. We assure you that the information and documents provided; opinions expressed for the projects will be used strictly for academic purpose only.

Date

Name - Mbuninalini Arun Modak

Roll no. - 31

Subject - Environmental Science

Class - SYBA

- ① CASE STUDY of a selected organization on their sustainable practices to protect the environment.

Introduction - I have visited a 'Nursery' to focus on the to-pic of 'Tree plantation'. Tree plantation has major emphasis in the syllabus of 'Environmental Science' and in overall 'ecosystem'.

Objective - To study the one of the way of tree plantation as mentioned above which is 'visiting a Nursery'.

Methodology -

- i) Took an official letter from college of permission to visit the Nursery.
- ii) Searched for nearby Nursery.
- iii) Took their permission on call about visiting and asking some questions.
- iv) Actually visited the nursery, took some photographs as for proof and asked some questions to complete the given objective.
- v) Final draft of the whole visit.

Case Study -

To attain the objective of this 'Environmental Science' project, I called the Manger to seek a permission regarding conducting a visit for a college project. Mr. Mhalsakant Kulkarni, manager of nursery

PRINCIPAL
Kannada Sangha Pune's
Kaveri College of Arts, Science & Commerce

'Pingale Farms' co-operated throughout the visit. The nursery is situated opposite to Talegaon Dabhade Police Chowky, on the Old Mumbai-Pune Express Highway. The manager Mr. Mahalsakant Kulkarni has a certificate of membership of 'Maharashtra Nurserymen Association, Association of Environmental Horticulture'. He is an active member dedicated to maintain ethical standards of Maharashtra Nurserymen Association, which is an association constituted to promote in the public interest the enhancement & enrichment of the natural environment.

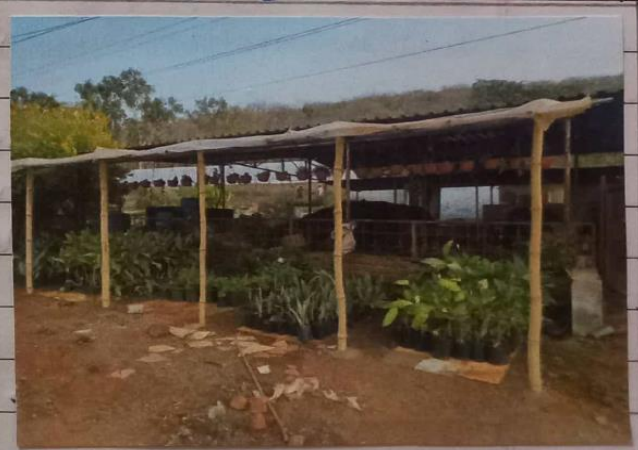

Name of the organization →
"PINGALE FARMS"

- History → Since 1978, It's been here for 44 years.

- Mission and Vision → There was no mission and vision related to the environment. The owner was willing to do some business in new sector for financial stability. So, the mission and vision was financial growth and security.

- Number of Employees → 40-42 workers are required.

scope, if focused on finances. Enough information & practical knowledge is required. Perspective behind it highly dependent on the 'mission and vision' of the business.

• Conclusion → If the motive behind the nursery or tree plantation would be environmental based, then the business would be felt better. Tree plantation & its awareness is very important and is required to be spread more and more which will be significantly noted by more number of customers.

References → i) Field / Nursery visits.

WASTE DISPOSAL MANAGEMENT SURVEY

EVA project SEM-4

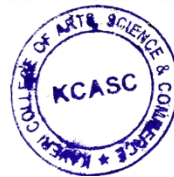

PRINCIPAL
Kannada Sangha Pune's
Kaveri College of Arts, Science & Commerce

INTRODUCTION

Solid waste management has emerged as one of the most massive development challenges in urban India. Numerous studies indicate that the unsafe disposal of waste generates dangerous gases and leachates, due to microbial decomposition, climate conditions, refuse characteristics and land-filling operations. According to the 12th Schedule of the 74th Constitution Amendment Act of 1992, urban local bodies (ULBs) are responsible for keeping cities and towns clean. However, most ULBs lack adequate infrastructure and face various strategic and institutional weakness, such as poor institutional capacity, financial constraints, and a lack of political will.

India has already exhausted all available landfill sites, and the concerned ULBs do not have resources to acquire new lands. However, most of them have failed to achieve their objectives of regulating the manner of waste disposal, due to lack of clarity and awareness amongst the stakeholders, and poor enforcement by the regulators.

Well, looking towards plastic ban, its overall objective is to reduce plastic in waste streams saving non-renewable resources and enabling carbon neutral energy production from waste. This project aims

- Identifying the main challenges and barriers for reducing plastic waste in mixed waste and residual waste streams, hereby stimulating prevention and recycling of plastic waste.
- Promoting recycling of plastic polymers as a substitute for virgin plastics.
- Diverting waste plastic from the residual waste going to incineration and landfill.

An important feature of this project is to set up a shared responsibility.

The principal consideration include:

- evaluation on the type and nature of wastes.
- estimation of total volumes.
- assesment of handling, storage, transportation and disposal methods to be adopted and the potential environmental impacts.

OBJECTIVES

The overall objectives of the waste disposal management project are summarised as

- to assess the activities involved for the proposed and determine the type, nature and the always estimated volumes of wastes to be generated.
- to identify any of the potential environmental impacts from the generation of the waste at the sites.
- to recommend appropriate waste handling process and the disposal measures or the routings in accordance with the current legislative and administrative requirements.
- to categorise waste material where the all practicable (inert material / waste fractions) for the disposal considerations i.e the public filling areas / landfills.

METHODOLOGY

By the definition, waste management is the process that involves the collection, transportation and recycling of disposal of waste. It encompasses management processes and resources that ensure proper handling of waste products.

Management of the resources involves all the maintenance of the waste transportation trucks and the dumping facilities so that they comply with the environmental regulations as well as the health codes. The primary objective of waste management is to avoid the adverse effects of wastes to human health and natural environment, but in most occasions, waste management companies carry out the process to get useful resources.

According to waste management companies, there are several waste management methods. They involve proper dumping, recycling, transportation and collection, and the creation of awareness. Creation of awareness is an important aspect. Management of waste in an area that requires proper awareness and education for global preservation.

SURVEY

A survey questionnaire was formulated in Kothrud area. The survey would enhance their knowledge of project and waste management issues.

I conducted survey through google forms survey. Some questionnaires were created to ensure the quality and of locality with the aim of comprehending their structure, organizational skills, consistency with the practices & updating policies for improvement.

DATA & OBSERVATION

How often is the waste container in your house emptied?

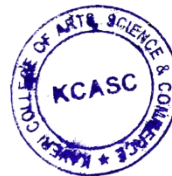

Are you aware of waste disposal management?

Do you separate wet garbage and dry garbage properly?

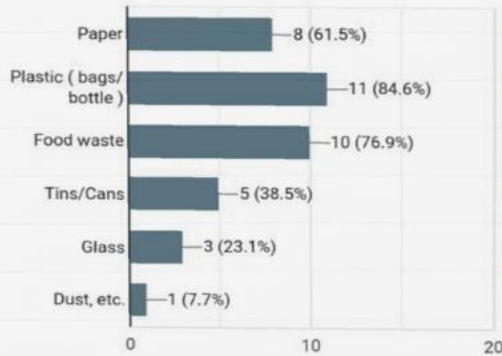

When data was observed, it showed that 92.3% people were aware of waste disposal management and all people separate wet and dry garbage properly. After survey it was found that many people were aware of plastic bags ban in our country, still there was 84% of plastic waste comes out from many households. Well knowing about organizational skills it was noted that 53% of waste containers from houses were emptied on daily basis.

while asking people about what they feel about the waste disposal practices, it was found that all people agreed with this and found it useful in many ways. Its absolutely correct that it helps to keep environment clean which positively impacts on our health. Here are few pictures of how survey went.

What type of solid waste comes out from your household?

Are you aware of plastic bags ban in our country?

RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on evaluation of the collected survey information, some actions should be taken in order to improve waste management in ~~B~~^kathrud area, and minimize the associated health and environment impacts.

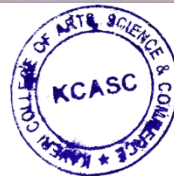

1. A suitable feasible waste collection and disposal system be established immediately.
2. Waste separation should be encouraged and each waste type should be disposed of in an appropriate manner.
3. Composting of organic waste in proper way should be encouraged.
4. Existing waste management regulations and their enforcement should be reviewed and ammended as soon as possible.
5. A variety of awareness activities targeting age, gender and interest groups withing the village ~~shoud~~ or every area should be carried out to encourage proper and responsible disposal of waste.

Kannada Sangha Pune's
Kannara College of Arts, Science & Commerce

CONCLUSION

The absence of a collection and disposal system is another contributing factor. In order to improve, the people must make an effort to dispose of various types of waste in a responsible manner. The existing regulations should be reviewed and amended to be in improve monitoring and enforcement. People are aware of plastic ban and what impact can we have because of plastic, so plastic use should be less. People should try to make less use of plastic bag, bottle, etc to keep the environment clean. There are many things that must be taken into consideration when discussing about the waste management such as disposal methods, recycling methods, avoidance and reduction methods, and transportation of waste properly.

Preventive Measures used by the organization to overcome environmental issues

1. Renewable Energy & Energy Efficiency

ITC has adopted a low carbon growth plan as part of its multi-pronged strategy to combat climate change - maximising the use of renewable energy and sharpening energy efficiency in all units are key elements in this action plan. Currently, around 41% of ITC's energy comes from renewable sources - biomass, wind and solar. Several ITC units, including a number of premium super-luxury hotels, already meet their entire energy need from self-owned wind farms. ITC also constantly strives to reduce energy consumption in its operations through a variety of measures, mainly by deploying cleaner, more efficient technologies and by promoting awareness and a culture of conservation in the workplace.

Energy is a key focus area in ITC's strategy for mitigating climate change risks. Since making sustainability a core objective in all business operations nearly two decades ago, it has worked to a low carbon growth plan in which expanding its renewable energy portfolio is a top priority. ITC currently utilizes wind, solar and biomass energy. Each Company Business is mandated to find the best solution to increase its use of renewable energy. For example, the Hotels Business mainly utilizes wind energy both from commercial grids and self-owned wind farms as well as solar energy. The energy-intensive Paperboards Business mainly uses biomass energy and further improves efficiencies by only using either locally sourced material or the by-products of its own manufacturing operations. To pursue continuous improvement in energy and emissions related performance, ITC businesses have taken up specific energy as well as specific Greenhouse Gas emission reduction targets.

3. Water Security

ITC has put in place an integrated and multi-faceted action plan with strategies to conserve and replenish this critical resource both within the scope of its operations and beyond the fence.

Each and every ITC unit is mandated to constantly improve water efficiency performance - i.e., to minimise water consumption, maximise rainwater harvesting on-site and recycle/re-use waste water as far as possible. To achieve these goals, all units have systems to monitor water intake, conduct water audits, set targets and assess performance against internal, national and international benchmarks.

Beyond the fence, ITC works extensively with farmers through its Watershed Development and Sustainable Agriculture Practices Programmes to increase water efficiency in agriculture.

Agriculture is the largest consumer of India's water resources, and ITC's Programme focuses on both supply and demand. Supply side interventions include construction of water harvesting structures to build storage capacities and planned measures to enhance aquifer recharge. On the demand side, ITC promotes the use of efficient irrigation devices, e.g. sprinkler sets and drip systems. As a result of all these actions, ITC has been water positive for the past 19 years.

4. Waste Recycling

ITC's action plan for waste management in its operations centres on minimising waste generation by constant monitoring and setting targets to improve resource utilisation, and maximising recycling to cut down the amount of waste going to landfills.

Paper and packaging waste is an important focus area for ITC as its Paperboards & Specialty Papers Division and Packaging & Printing Business are among India's largest in their respective sectors. ITC's manufacturing units are steadily increasing use of post-consumer waste paper as raw material instead of using virgin fibre. ITC is also collaborating with academic/research organisations to develop solutions for sustainable packaging and for reducing the environmental impact of post-consumer packaging waste.

Outside the scope of its operations, ITC runs a solid waste management programme called WOW (Well-being Out of Waste) that works in partnership with citizens, municipalities and rag-pickers/waste collectors to promote source segregation and recycling. ITC also runs several other waste management projects - the overall goals are the same but solutions are often tailored to local situations, e.g., the promotion of home composting or the involvement of women's self-help groups. As a result of these measures, ITC has been solid waste recycling positive for the last 14 years in a row.

Learning from the Case Study

Through this case study I understood the importance of the contribution by a business entity towards the society, the environment for its sustainability and longevity.

ITC, one of the biggest conglomerates of India which has its wings spread over all sectors and industries not only in India but also around the world, gives the society various benefits for the growth and development of people and surroundings so as to make the environment a better place to live for all.

All the contribution acts a return or a Thank You towards the society for letting ITC to conduct its business and to grow bigger and bigger by catering to various consumers across the globe.

The detailed information about the NGO: Bhumi is given below;

- Name of the organization :

The name of the organization is Bhumi

As the country turned 59, the seeds of thought to form a non-profit organisation were sown, which finally led to a few of them penning down the objectives of the organisation on October 2, 2006. We decided to call ourselves 'Bhumi'.

- Their History :

Bhumi was started in 2006 by a few students and young professionals in the Indian city of Chennai. The organisation was started by ophthalmologist Dr. Prahalathan KK and his friends Ayyanar Elumalai, Dr. Harishankar, Namasivayam and Prakash Selvaraj.

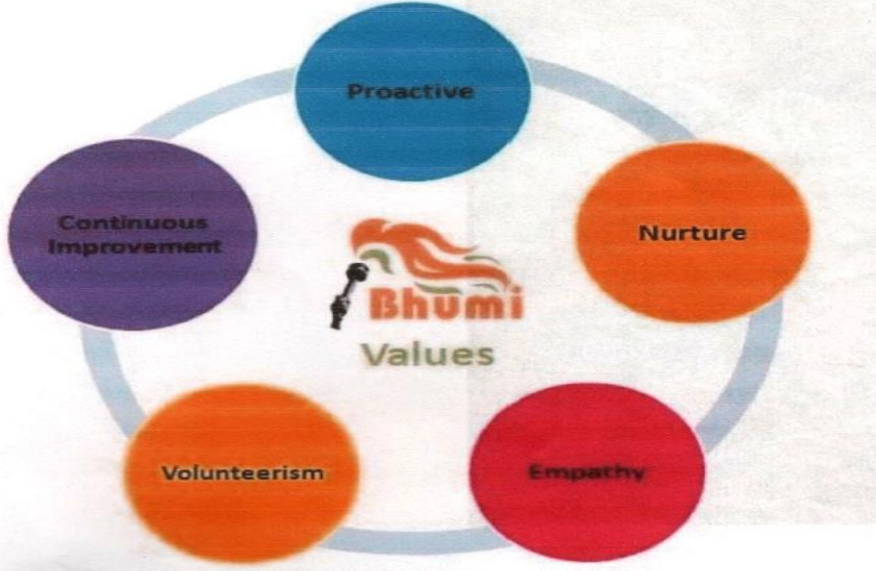

At the core, both Bala Mandir and Pudupettai projects were meant to teach children English, the lack of objectivity on what they wanted to do reflected in our classes. Then they

Mission

To drive social change by fostering an environment where young adults and children learn, lead, and thrive.

Their vision is to help build a more influential, equal and socially conscious society.

They say :

Change Today Change Tomorrow.

Learnings from the case study :

It is very true that we should focus on our environmental issues.

Environmental awareness is critical because it can help to minimise pollution and global warming.

Bhumi is going on the correct direction to save our environment.

They have a cleanliness drive every weekend and I have also worked with them on that.

What they say is very important and correct “ change today....change tomorrow “ if we ignore the environment problems now it will be very difficult for the next generation to survive.
