Respected Maam,

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to bring to your attention a situation that arose on 5/3/24, regarding my inability to attend two important examinations (Papers) in Psychology Special & Economics General.

Regrettably, on that particular day, I was indisposed due to sudden illness, which prevented me from being present for the scheduled exams. As a diligent student, it is with great disappointment that I must request your understanding and consideration in this matter.

Enclosed with this letter is a medical certificate provided by my healthcare provider, attesting to my illness and inability to attend the examinations as scheduled. I understand the importance of adhering to academic commitments and assure you that I am committed to making it up for the missed assessments as soon as you advise.
